

Coronavirus Covid-19 update 18 March 2020:

In line with advice from Public Health England and Government updates on the rapid spread of the Coronavirus, Bawdsey Transmitter Block will remain closed to the public during April and May.

This period of closure may have to be extended even further and we will review the position again in mid-April.

Although the Museum is closed, we will still be communicating online, via our website and on Twitter and Facebook.

We will be re-opening as soon as it is safe to do so, and look forward to welcoming everyone back at that time.
